Is Debased Silver Coinage Next Treasury Move?

Recent Decisions Open Pandora Box!

C. F. Verbeke

THE Treasury decision to "suspend" the minting of proof sets after current 1964 orders are filled was greeted with unanimous consternation by the numismatic community. Most severely affected of course are collectors ordering one or two sets a year. Their resentment is twofold; primarily directed at the Treasury for its expedient decision of unproven merits, their ire also goes to large speculators and dealers who sometimes succeeded in ordering thousands of sets.

Public opinion has been carefully prepared for this proof set holocaust since mid year 1963. The coin collector now emerges as the scape goat from the entire situation.

This being accomplished, the Congressional machine is now ready to approve the continuation of the 1964 date on all subsequent U.S. coinage. Numismatically speaking the move is irrelevant, since no real collector's value is attributed to '64 coinage. The credulous speculator who paid $1350 for a bag of 1964-P Dimes ($1000 face value) will thus be taught a lesson in relative and real numismatic value. The move is bound to appreciate the value of all pre '64 coinage however; this could cause investors and collector concentration on all dates prior to 1964 and offset the "beneficial" effects of a greatly increased '64 coinage.

Behind this array of actual and prospective government moves, seemingly progressing in incoherent fashion, lies unquestionably an ultimate goal.

Slowly emerging are signs of an intensified official desire to reduce the silver content of U.S. coinage. This move, dictated by necessity and by rapidly dwindling silver supplies, could not be justified without the occurrence of a series of preparative developments.

While officially attributed to coin hoarders, "money merchants", and collectors, the current alleged coin shortage is but one symptom of the U.S. silver predicament.

There can be no doubt left now about the ultimate "grand design" consisting of the adoption of a debased silver coinage. For obvious political reasons such a move cannot be made in an election year because of its highly unpopular implication of "devaluation".

The ground work for the adoption of a debased U.S. coinage has been laid in recent months by the introduction of bills H.R. 10559 and H.R. 10560 calling for the suspension of silver sales by the Treasury and to double the monetary value of silver. Author of the bills, Representative Compton I. White, Jr., democrat of Idaho, recently set forth his views in support of the proposed legislation: "At the present time the silver dollar contains 412.5 grains of silver at a monetary value of $1.29 per ounce. Our subsidiary coins, the dime, 25 and 50 cent pieces contain 7 percent less silver content than the dollar, so the monetary value of the silver in them is $1.38 per ounce. The world market price of silver is equal to the monetary value contained in silver dollars or obtainable through the redemption or retirement of silver certificates. The willingness of the U.S. Treasury to sell its silver at $1.29 per ounce places a ceiling on the market price and prevents the operation of the law of supply and demand with regard to silver. Last year free world consumption of silver was about double free world production, 210 million ounces produced and 419 million ounces consumed. In the United States production lagged behind consumption by 147 million ounces: 37 million produced and 184 million consumed."

The gap between silver consumption and production is presently being filled by sales of Treasury silver. Last year the net reduction in the U.S. Treasury silver stocks was 182 million ounces according to Handy and Harmon. At this rate the entire stock of U.S. Treasury silver will soon be depleted and we will have to eliminate silver from our coins and buy our strategic silver from other nations at a price three and four times higher than the present monetary values. Time is of the essence if we are to correct this situation, because silver consumption is steadily increasing, while production continues to dwindle."

The issuance of Federal Reserve notes to replace Silver Certificates is essentially an expedient move according to Representative White when he stated: "I am of the opinion that unless something is done with respect to the relation of silver and our coinage in the very near future, conceivably within the next 12 months, that we are going to have a serious crisis. This ultimately could be very detrimental to our economy and to the silver industry." He continued:

"A year ago when Congress amended the silver laws and provided for $1 paper certificates, it was commonly stated in Washington, D.C., that we had a supply of 15 years of silver for coinage and industrial purposes. In 1963, 200 million ounces were sold by the Treasury or consumed in coinage. Hence, the present supply of silver backing our Federal Reserve silver certificates could be consumed in 7 years providing the present rate is going to accelerate at a much faster rate unless something is done with respect to our coinage problem."

The Hon. White does not believe the resumption of silver dollar minting is advisable at this time. He offered the following explanation in support of his theory: "For all intents and purposes, the silver dollar is extinct. The U.S. Treasury could perhaps solve this problem by minting another hundred million or two hundred million silver dollars. There have been no silver dollars minted since 1935. However, as soon as these new silver dollars were minted, they would merely become collectors items and this would merely aggravate the situation and not solve the coin problem."

On the subject of doubling the price of silver he stated: "I don't know whether doubling the monetary price will bring production and consumption into line, but it certainly will allow silver to seek its true value in the marketplace and hopefully close the gap between production and use. When the market price of silver went from 90 cents per ounce in 1961 to $1.29 in 1963, there was but a 2-percent increase in silver production. I hope that the percentage will increase substantially by removing the present ceiling price."

After months of consideration and study I proposed doubling the monetary value for two reasons. I believe the increase will be sufficient to conserve the U.S. Treasury stocks for coinage and strategic uses. Secondly, by using the factor of 2 in adjusting the monetary value, the horrendous problems of immediately calling in all our outstanding coins and reminting them will be avoided. The doubling of our coins' value has its problems admittedly, but it certainly is superior to the prospect of having our coins melted down.

The Hon. White should mention, however, that only by a 50% reduction of the present silver content in U.S. coinage the price doubling effect can be achieved. This would leave U.S. coinage with a silver content of 45% or 450 fine! Mint experts, among them the Masters of the Mint in Eng-

INVESTMENTS FOR TODAY

Commemorative Coin Of The British Commonwealth

WITH the advent of the teletype and the large coin market in rolls that has prevailed during the immediate past, many long-time coin investors adjusted to a stepped-up tempo in buying and selling. Some among the coin community were "all-shookup," and are still reverting like Franklin's bell.

One of the results of the faster-communicating, faster-paced market in coins has been an influx of new investors, many of whom, while having had experience in stock market or commodity investments, entered the coin market with little previous numismatic knowledge. These newcomers have had to educate themselves in coins as they went along, considerably aided by the many coin publications. The new breed of American coin investor, it must be conceded, has done his homework before buying and has become quite knowledgeable about late date coins of the United States which have been the principal trading medium on the teletype. The status, mintage-wise and price-wise, of the Lincoln pennies, Jefferson nickels, Roosevelt dimes, Franklin halves, the late proof sets, the Morgan and Peace silver dollars, are as familiar to him as Steels, Oils, and Motors are to the stock market trader. He is acquainted with the "good" dates of each denomination, as well as the main varieties. He knows which of these coins are moving, which are static. He has absorbed the vernacular of coin language, recognizing "smallies" for small date cents and "wars" or "silver nickels" for the 1942-45 series, and, though "78 with 8 feathers" may sound like a description of an old Indian chief to the layman, the investor knows it for a low mintage silver dollar.

The new investor may have explored a few avenues of numismatics in addition to the late coins, such as the U. S. commemoratives, the Liberty halves, Mercury dimes, the coins of Canada, as well as the Wild West twins, the Indians and Buffaloes, but due to his neophyte status in coins—whatever his previous investment experience—and the vastness of the numismatic field, in most cases his hard-core knowledge lies in the widely-traded types of the teletype.

For the newcomer, as well as the coin investor of long-standing, it is certain that to buy to advantage one must be informed. As has been said ad infinitum, there is no substitute for knowledge. The successful investor must keep up with the current coin information available in coin publications, observe and evaluate the fluctuations in the coin market, and always his investment antennae must be alert to pick up from his sources of information the first whisper of a change in trend. Most of all, he must continually extend his knowledge of the whole field of numismatics by study so that he may have perspective in judging new opportunities of investment.

The student of current trends in coin investment cannot have failed to notice the growing interest in coins of the World and the equally growing interest of the World—outside the U.S.—in coins. Canadians have become active coin investors—quite appropriately for members of a country with vast metal resources—and recent reports indicate that there is a renaissance of interest in coin investment in England. And this state of affairs is spreading to other countries. Many U.S. coin dealers are beginning to advertise foreign coins extensively, and this year saw the COIN WORLD bring out the new magazine, WORLD COINS.

A rough classification of coins of the World would be regular issues and commemorative coins. We propose to consider only the latter here. These World commemoratives—as in the case of our own commemoratives—were minted mainly to commemorate centennials of special events or to honor the birth dates of famous persons. Although usually issued by governments, the commemoratives were sometimes sold at a premium over their face value to raise funds for various worthy purposes. Often they were released into regular circulation. The larger denominations were usually selected for these special coins, although some are as small as the U.S. cent. In Canada, silver dollars are the commemoratives, with one exception; in Mexico, pesos. Most World commemoratives conform quite closely to the English crown in size. The diameter of the English crown is 38.7 millimeters, slightly larger than our silver dollar, which is 38.10 millimeters. The metals used to strike these coins may be any metal or alloy used by mints, particularly silver, bronze, nickel, and aluminum.

The commemoratives of the World are readily collectable by countries, since most countries have relatively few commemorative issues, sometimes only five or six pieces. They are also collectable in many other series, such as the regal portrait series of the British Commonwealth and topical sets of various kinds.

For investment purposes the early World commemoratives are impossible to obtain in quantity and their thin supply makes them ineligible as vehicles for wide trading. Therefore the investor must concern himself with commemoratives of modern mintage. On the premise that, in general, the coins of prosperous countries with stable economies, whose collectors are financially able to buy their own nation's coins, present the best opportunities, it seems reasonable to begin any investment in World commemoratives with coins of this kind of country.

The most stable economies outside the United States at the present time are found in Western Europe and the British Commonwealth of Nations. Great Britain, in spite of her exclusion from the European Common Market, continues to enjoy prosperity, and so do the nations associated with her in the Commonwealth. A selection of commemoratives from the British Commonwealth probably presents one of the best starting points available for the investor in commemoratives.

The commemoratives of the Commonwealth are listed here along with a few facts about each. Marked with an asterisk are the commemorative coins belonging to the popular Elizabeth II series. Approximate retail prices, which have been changing quite rapidly, were taken from advertisements of the last month and some were also obtained from a large New York dealer. Where no price is given, the current price is not known, due to none being offered. Prices are per piece.

GREAT BRITAIN (Only four commemorative coins struck in her entire history.)

1. Silver Jubilee King George V. 1935. Silver crown. Mintage, 714,769 (Also 25 pattern pieces in gold and 2,500 silver pieces with raised edge inscription.) Obverse: George V. Reverse: St. George and the Dragon. Approx. price, unc. $15; raised edge type, $250-$270.

land have repeatedly stated a minimum of 600 fineness is required in silver coinage to preserve minimum qualities of appearance and aesthetics.

Representative White commented wryly: "This use of silver could conceivably be eliminated if our country were to commence using metal slugs or buttons for coins. Handy and Harmon have sent up a trial balloon proposing that the silver content in coins be eliminated. Historically, sound governments have been based upon sound money. Silver is an emblem of sound money and I doubt very much if our people will want to see it completely eliminated from our coins."

The issuance of a new half dollar design bearing the likeness of the late President Kennedy was criticized by Rep. White who considered the move ill advised on economical grounds. He stated in effect:

"The Treasury made another mistake with respect to the coinage problem by seeking approval for the Kennedy 50-cent piece. In doing this the U.S. mint quit making Ben Franklin half dollars, after making them for 17 years. Hence, all the Ben Franklin half dollars made in the last 2 or 3 years are going into the hands of collectors and out of circulation. The new Kennedy half dollar will never be a coin. It will be a symbol or medal of President Kennedy and I would venture to say they would go out of existence faster than they can be minted. Every individual in many of the underprivileged nations of the world, for example, Indian, Africa, South America, will all want a Kennedy 50-cent piece as a remembrance of the President. As a consequence, our Government can mint the half dollars and they will

"Coin Investment: A Brief History"

By ROBERT OBOJSKI, Ph.D.

THE HISTORY of coin investment actually goes back to the time when the world's first coins were struck in the ancient Kingdom of Lydia in Asia Minor 2,700 years ago.

And from the time of the ancient Lydians, through the great eras of the Greek, Roman and Byzantine Empires, and all during the span of Western Civilization from the Middle Ages to the Renaissance and Modern Europe, people have always put away quantities of coins for investment purposes.

Coin investment has also been practiced for centuries in every major country of the Orient, especially in China, Japan and India.

While large scale investment in coins may seem like a striking new phenomenon in North America now, its origins fade back into the deep mists of antiquity.

How do we know that peoples of ancient civilizations put away large quantities of coins for investment purposes? Perhaps the most telling evidence of this is that over the generations innumerable hoards of coins have been unearthed, a process that is still going on today.

Whenever a fresh hoard is excavated, an air of high excitement sweeps through the numismatic world—sometimes coins thought to be rare become common, prices fluctuate wildly, and often specific phases of numismatic history must be rewritten.

For example, Alexander the Great's silver tetradrachm with its head of Herakles and the seated figure of Zeus with his eagle and thunderbolt, was one of the most widely circulated coins of ancient times, but for years prices for these specimens in choice condition were relatively high.

This artistic tetradrachm circulated all through Alexander's empire and continued to be issued by his successors for almost 200 years after his death in 323 B. C. These coins eventually replaced the coins of individual Greek city-states.

However, during the past century many hoards of the tetradrachms have turned up. One of the largest was dug up at Demanhur in Egypt in 1905—over 8,000 tetradrachms, buried about 318 B. C., were unearthed in this find. Prices came down sharply and collectors of even the most modest means were able to add this beautiful coin to their cabinets.

The Roman Empire struck coins by the millions during its millennium of existence, in many metals, including copper, bronze, silver, electrum and gold.

There were no banks as we know them in Rome; thus coins were buried in the ground for safekeeping. Since the Roman Empire at its height sprawled throughout Europe, from the Middle East to the shores of England, Roman coin hoards are being uncovered to this day over this huge area.

In the summer of 1960, for example, a Roman urn filled with several thousand coins was discovered in Gloucester, England, and was described by British numismatic publications as a "very important find."

The urn, measuring 12 inches by 16 inches, was found by workmen who were digging in a basement, and the coins were immediately turned over to the Gloucester City Museum. Many of the coins were struck in the third century A. D. and bore the heads of Roman emperors, Aurelian and Probus.

About the same time in the City of London, a find of 74 Roman silver coins were described by the British Museum as "treasure trove and seized for the Queen at an inquest at the City Coroner's Court." They were found by workmen excavating a building site in Budge-row, near Watling Street.

Mr. R. Merrifield, Assistant Keeper at the City Museum of London, said the coins, which were denarii, dated from about 130 B. C. to A.D. 77 and 78. With the exception of about five Mark Antony legionary coins, they were pure silver.

Michael Prociowski, one of the workmen, said that he and several of his co-workers found the coins "like a nest" in a shovelful of earth. The City Coroner's Court found that the coins had been intentionally hidden.

Under British Treasure Trove law, all coins required for the British Museum shall be retained, while those not required shall be returned to the finder. For those kept, the finder/or finders are compensated at the full market value for the specimens.

This entire hoard was retained by the British Museum since these particular Roman silver pieces were fine and rare items. One Museum official in the Coins and Medals section commented: "It appears likely that this hoard of Roman silver was gathered together by a discriminating ancient numismatist."

While this writer was on an extended tour through Europe recently, he visited the Landesmuseum in Zurich, Switzerland, and interviewed Dr. Dietrich Schwarz, curator of the Swiss national numismatic collection. Over 100,000 coins are contained here.

One of the most recent acquisitions was a hoard of Roman silver coins that was uncovered near Zurich four years ago. The clay jar in which the coins were found is included in a display of this hoard, with the coins being almost perfectly preserved in that jar for nearly 2,000 years.

Portrayed on the silver pieces are such famous Roman emperors as Augustus Caesar, Tiberius, Nero, Hadrian, Trajan, Antoninus Pius and others. "Only a coin collector could have gathered together a hoard like this," commented Dr. Schwarz.

A large hoard of bronze, silver and gold Byzantine gold coins was discovered in Sweden's Lake Malaren in the spring of 1961. Rune Skog was digging a well in his garden on a little island in Lake Malaren when he discovered something shining in the soil. He first found a gold ring, and then several score gold Byzantine coins ranging in date from 500 to 900 A.D.

These coins, struck during the reigns of over 20 Byzantine rulers, were for the most part in excellent condition.

Only a collector's hoard would have such a wide assortment of specimens, carrying portraits of many different rulers, coins by type, denomination, etc.

Finds of ancient coins are made frequently in Sweden. The total number of Byzantine coins discovered in the last generation runs into the thousands. A good percentage of them can be seen at museums in larger cities throughout the country.

Coin hoards discovered in Poland have been instrumental in aiding scholars to reconstruct the early history of that country. "Wiadomosci Numismatyczne" ("Polish Numismatic News"), one of the official publications of the Warsaw Academy of Sciences, has reported that there is plenty of evidence indicating many of the hoards were built up by serious and enthusiastic collectors of coins.

How do finds of coins aid the historian in finding keys to academic puzzles? This example might serve to clarify: after a great deal of research in numismatics, the Warsaw Academy of Sciences released several reports in 1958. The research revealed that before 970 A.D., 98 per cent of the coins used in Poland were of Arabian, Persian and Byzantine origin. And then from 970 to 1070, discoveries of coin hoards indicate that 56.7 per cent of the coins used in Poland were of European origin. This clearly shows the decrease in Eastern influence in the country and the increase of Western influence.

Warsaw Academy also found a strong Roman influence in Polish economics through studying coin hoards, since Roman coins have been found in all areas of the country. In 1942, a farmer in central Poland found many Roman denarii with the bust of Trajan, emperor of Rome from 98 to 117 A.D.

The Kurnicki Castle Numismatic Exposition in Poland in 1956 was viewed by thousands of coin enthusiasts, and a large part of the exposition was devoted to coin hoards found in the country over a period of many years. There were innumerable Roman denarii of more than a dozen emperors, Arabian silver dirhems, and gold pieces of ancient Bavaria.

Part of the exposition was devoted to a showing of Polish coins found in other countries. For example, many 12th century silver and gold pieces were found around Kiev and other parts of the Ukraine as a result of Poland's invasions of that area of Russia. Polish coins have also been found in Germany, Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania. This reveals the country's economic influence over a wide area.

Numismatists of long ago in Poland and surrounding environs played no small part in laying together significant quantities of coins that are still being utilized today by scholars to reconstruct the pages of ancient, medieval, and Renaissance history.

One of the greatest coin finds in recent years was discovered almost accidentally near Baghdad, Iraq, in 1955, when a group of students from the Iraqi Institute of Technology traveled to a mosque to study 11th and 12th century Islamic architecture.

While the students were digging at the ancient ruins of the mosque, they discovered several huge jars filled with gold and silver coins and antique jewelry. Upon hearing the news, the Director General of Antiquities in Baghdad sent out a special expedition to fully excavate the site. Several more jars filled to the brim with Islamic gold and silver coins of the 14th and 15th centuries were found.

Islamic coins of this period circulated not only in the Middle East but throughout Europe as well. They have been uncovered from the Atlantic Ocean to the Red Sea, but the Baghdad find was by far the most significant.

And it is reasonable to assume that one or more Arab coin investors of long ago may have put these coins aside expecting them to appreciate in value over a period of time.

News broke only a few months ago as to a huge find of Japanese coins in Tokyo at a building construction site. Two caches containing no less than 40,000 gold coins, plus many thousands of silver coins, were brought to light by workmen.

Early calculated estimate of this awesome hoard placed the total value at upwards of $13,000,000, and, if verified, this find will rank perhaps as the greatest hoard ever uncovered.

The construction site was being cleared for the Nisshin Oil Mills Company new headquarters in the Chuo-ku section of Tokyo. The property was formerly the site of the Nobuyoshi Kajima family Sake (rice wine) establishment. The Kajima family had carried on their Sake business at the same location for more than 300 years but the winery was nearly completely destroyed by American air raids during World War II.

It is believed that the Kajima family had kept this tremendous number of coins in safekeeping in the sub-basement of their building. A large percentage of the gold coins date back to the 17th century, the "Edo era" of Japanese history.

When the whole treasure is fully examined, it is expected that the numismatic history of this period of Japan will have to be re-written since many hitherto unknown gold specimens have already been turned up.

Surviving members of the Kajima family are laying claim to this vast treasure. However, Japan's Education Ministry still has the power under the country's treasure trove laws to retain any and all specimens it requires for Japan's museums. As in British treasure trove law, owners/or finders are always compensated at full market value for all those pieces retained.

When it came to investing in coins, the Kajima family really "poured on the coke!"

Bowers on World Coins

Q. David Bowers

PROOF sets have always attracted investors, and foreign proof sets are no exception. In the past proof sets have been issued by dozens of different countries in the world, some countries issuing sets on a continuous basis, other countries issuing sets only on special occasions. An example of the former is Canada which has issued proof sets continually for many years and in quantity available to collectors since 1954. On the other extreme is Great Britain. During the past century proof sets have been issued only on special occasions, the Jubilee of Queen Victoria, coronations of the various monarchs and the Festival of Britain being examples.

In recent months the proof sets of South Africa have attracted much attention. This has been due in part to numerous people recommending them for investment, several going as far as to publish pamphlets on them.

We list below the various South Africa proof sets since 1946 . . . a series containing all those issued since the war. South Africa has issued proof sets since 1923 on an intermittent basis and on a continuous basis since the 1930's. However, the early sets have such low mintages as to make them nearly uncollectable. In the list which we present here you will note that the mintages of certain years such as 1946, 1950 and 1959 are quite small.

South Africa proof sets

1946 Mintage: 150 sets. Current approximate price: $125.00. Rare. Originally issued in a wood, metal and white cardboard case. The three bronze pieces have a dark surface typical of the early proof sets from this country.

1947 Mintage: 2,600 sets. Current approximate price: $45.00. Issued to commemorate the royal visit, and containing a special crown. Sets from 1947 up include the crown denomination, and for this reason 1947 is often regarded as a starting point for collectors.

1948 Mintage: 1,120 sets. Current approximate price $40.00.

1949 Mintage: 800 sets. Current approximate price: $50.00. A scarce set. The prices in these listings are only approximations and are gathered from what few printed price lists we have seen in the various publications. Any investor wishing to acquire a position in South African sets will undoubtedly have to "stretch" these prices somewhat in order to buy anything approximating a quantity.

1950 Mintage: 500 sets. Current approximate price: $50.00. Despite the lower mintage than 1949, Les Zeller (a longtime specialist in South African proof sets) notes that 1950's and 1949's occur with about the same frequency.

1951 Mintage: 2000 sets. Current approximate price: $30.00.

1952 Mintage: 3,500 sets. Current approximate price: $27.00. Beginning with this year and continuing onward the South African sets have been issued in three forms: first the standard set which contains the minor coins through the crown; second the "Long set" containing two gold pieces in addition to the regular coins, and third the pair of gold coins alone (which really cannot be considered a set so will not be included in this list). 12,000 Long sets were issued in 1952. Their current valuation is approximately $80.00. The 1952 set was issued to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the founding of Cape-town, a special commemorative crown depicts this event.

1953 Mintage: 2000 sets. Approximate market price: $27.00. Also 3000 sets with gold valued at $80.00. Popular as it is a first year of Queen Elizabeth.

1954 Mintage: 2,275 sets. Approximate market value: $27.50. In addition 875 Long sets were issued. These currently sell for approximately $90.00.

1955 Mintage: 2,250 sets. Current approximate market value: $27.50. Also 600 sets with the gold currently valued at approximately $90.00.

1956 Mintage: 1,350 sets. Current approximate value: $35.00. Only 350 sets with

THE furor created by the various Treasury Department announcements during the past couple of weeks has not abated as yet, and nobody actually knows what is going to happen—that is none of the public has any knowledge of what is going to happen. It is possible that Treasury officials have decided in their own minds what they are going to do about the situation if there isn't too much pressure put on them by the coin collecting fraternity. We usually do not repeat ourselves from week to week, but we cannot emphasize too strongly the fact that we are supposed to be living in a Democracy and that various departments of the Government cannot make their own rules and regulations without the approval of the public. If the proposed changes in the coinage system of our country do not meet with the approval of the general public, there certainly is something that can be done about it. The only thing is, we can't sit back and say 'Let George do it,' we must take positive action by letting our Congressman know our feelings and desires.

There are laws on the books that govern United States coinage, although there have been very few relating to coinage since 1879. The last major change was in 1933 when the Government suspended the payment of gold coin and gold certificates to the public and made it illegal to possess them. According to an act of Congress passed in 1890 changes in the design of any denomination coin cannot be made until the design has been in effect for 25 years. The first time that this law was circumvented was in 1932 with the issuing of the Washington quarter. The Standing Liberty quarter was first issued in 1916 and minted continuously through 1930. There didn't seem to be any demand for quarters in 1931, so none were minted. Actually the Washington quarter that was first issued in 1932 was supposed to be a commemorative coin commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, but somehow or other, there were never any more Standing Liberty quarters made after 1932, as there were no quarters minted in 1933, and starting with 1934 the Washington quarter has been minted continuously every year up to the present. Everyone is familiar with the Kennedy half dollar. Special legislation was rushed through to approve this coin because the Franklin half dollar had only been in circulation since 1948. Of course all of this was not necessary at all, but when eager and uninformed people get together and get all excited about something it is hard to show them the right road to follow. On November 23rd, 1963, the day after the death of President Kennedy, this writer wrote a letter to President Johnson suggesting that we commemorate President Kennedy on either of two United States coins, the nickel or the quarter. The Jefferson nickel which was first minted in 1938 was eligible to have the design changed without a special act of Congress, and the Washington quarter was also eligible to have the design changed without a special act of Congress. All that we had in mind was to have a coin commemorating President Kennedy and to have it done the easiest and simplest way. Probably most Congressmen are unfamiliar with the laws regarding coinage of United States coins, so the special legislation necessary to change the design of our half dollar was rushed through with lots of fanfare and publicity. This in itself is largely responsible for the tremendous demand for the Kennedy half dollar today. It is hard to say what might have been if we had a Kennedy quarter or a Kennedy nickel, but we believe that there are always more lower denomination coins made and that the Mint could have kept up with the demands for nickels or quarters better than they are keeping up with the demand for half dollars. An interesting note that most of you collectors and investors do not know is the secrecy and cloak and dagger methods used so that the Kennedy halves could reach the Federal Reserve Banks and local banks without being identified by the bags that they were in. Anyone who has ever seen a Mint bag of coins during the past few years knows that each bag is marked first with the mint that produces the coins, such as 'U. S. Mint, Denver', then the denomination of the coins, cents, nickels, etc., then the face value of the coins in the bag, which is $50.00 for cents, $200.00 for nickels, $1,000.00 each for dimes, quarters, and halves, and finally the date of the coins. We don't know who the Mint officials were trying to outwit, but all the Kennedy half dollars from both Mints were shipped out in plain, unmarked bags. That's right, there were no markings of any sort on the bags of Kennedy halves to show what they were or where they were made.

The two mints are still shipping Kennedy halves that way, and what they have accomplished by doing things in that manner still remains to be seen.

In our opinion all that they have accomplished is to make more people aware of collecting and saving coins. It might be a fallacy, but we remember back to the rationing period during World War II, and we imagine that many of our readers can think back that far too. As soon as coffee was rationed it disappeared from grocers shelves all over the country. The same thing happened with sugar, and many other items of food. People who usually used one pound of coffee every two weeks had two years supply stashed away in their basements.

As far as we can see it is just human nature to stock up on something that the Government says is going to be scarce. We think that most of the current coin 'shortage' is caused by just such thinking on the part of the general public. They see so much publicity about various shortages of coins in various parts of the country, that even though they are not collectors and even though they personally do not need the coins, they are bound and determined to gather a bunch of them and hide them away in a safe place for the future. It is entirely possible that if the Government were to announce today that there was no longer a shortage of coins and that there was plenty for everyone, and that billions were being manufactured to take care of the demand, there actually would be no shortages, regional or otherwise. Many things like this are just a state of mind, not an actuality at all.

PROOF SETS - THE BLUEST OF THE BLUE CHIPS

Profits thru research

In May of 1963, we presented a depth study of Proof Sets, calling them the "overlooked" Blue Chips of the Coin Market. No prediction of our has ever worked out BETTER. Following now a year later, let us bring this work up-to-date. We again present a chart showing the PAST PERFORMANCE of the "AT&T's" of the Coin Market.

1963	3,075,645	210.00	245.00	650.00	405.00
TOTALS	15,317,591	$3,150.00	$23,990.00	$52,440.00	$28,450.00

Chart figured on basis of 100 set lots of each particular date including 1960 SD. The period covered is from 1950-1963 inclusive. The total period covered is 14 years.

We find that investors who consistently buy 100 set lots from the mint each year had a net profit of $20,640.00 as of June 28, 1963. Just 12 months later, the same investment had increased to the fantastic amount of $49,290.00, a 12 months gain of $28,450.00, all of this on an original investment of $3,150.00. Certainly can send Junior to College on an investment of this kind spread over 14 years with an annual investment of less than $250.00.

There is an old cliché "Opportunity Never Knocks TWICE". We Contrarians do not believe this. There are just as many opportunities today and probably more than when I was a youngster three score years ago. Cynics say who would have bought these sets a year ago for the SIZEABLE SUM of $23,990.00? Nobody? You are wrong. There were those WHO BOUGHT. I well recall one investor who had me purchase not $23,990.00 at the market a year ago, but almost $40,000.00 worth. This same investor has these laid away for 15 years, at which time they will revert to his son who will have completed his college education at that time. So you see, people do INVEST, and sometimes in sizeable amounts.

Once again back to the chart and a few statistics that you might ruminate over. For the man with foresight enough to buy from U.S. Mint each year at cost, the gain over a 14 year period has been a tidy 1,500.76% for an annual average of 115.44%. Can you think of any BETTER investment under the face of the SUN? I most certainly cannot.

When I called national attention to these proof sets a year ago with my essay entitled, "PROOF SETS - A PRIME INVESTMENT", what happened to the man who BOUGHT? Poor fellow, he only made a PROFIT of 118% for the year just passed, this, of course, if he invested in the entire series. In many cases he made much more. For instance: In the 1950 set, he made better than 200%. Others showed almost as FANTASTIC gains.

Once again Proof sets are on the move. They are the PRIME investment of the Coin Market and always will be. I cannot predict that they will double again this year, but in my opinion their PROFIT MARCH is going to be steady and consistent. They seem to buck every down trend in today's market. Yes, opportunities do knock and knock quite often. I predict that when we view the proof set prices of today, three years from now, we will once again be AMAZED. Money invested at 10% compound interest shows MEAGER earnings indeed when contrasted with money invested in Proof Sets. For those seeking the shelter of BLUECHIP protection, and looking for the long term possibilities with GREATEST built-in safety and UPSIDE possibilities, I once again say study your proof sets. BUY the UNDERPRICE ones at the MARKET today. In years to come, you will be glad you did.

Many thanks for your kind letters

Another WILLOUGHBY FIRST. Acting as your agent we will BUY or SELL BU Rolls at teletape market plus 5% brokerage. All orders executed at market at time order is executed . . . No longer is it necessary to chase rolls trying to "locate" at market price . . . The day of 20% to 50% spreads in BUY and SELL prices are in the limbo of the past . . . Today's market is a live market and the action is FAST . . . Buying rolls at prices that have large mark ups above teletape market can be DISASTROUS . . . With a 20% or more profit you could have to WAIT for a considerable time to break even on your purchases. Buying at MARKET gives you a built in advantage — only a small RISE is necessary for a profit . . . More chances for INSTANTANEOUS PROFITS . . . when you buy at WHOLESALE.

We are COIN BROKERS — there's a wide difference between BROKERS and DEALERS . . . Brokers in all business enterprises work for COMMISSIONS . . . He BUYS and he SELLS coins for you, you pay him a SMALL commission to perform these services for you. Brokers may or may not be dealers . . . A BROKER is a SPECIALIST who works for you . . . A dealer has to add 20-40% MARK UP for the simple reason that he has INVESTED money in your transaction. Because the COIN BROKER does NOT INVEST money in your transaction, he is able to consummate your transaction at the MARKET plus a small commission . . .

Sorry we cannot handle orders for less than $100.00 on commission basis — Postage and insurance added to all commission orders . . . Only our large VOLUME allows us to extend you this service — it will pay to use this service!

Choice Items

1864-Two Cent Piece (small motto) a choice BU gem. True rarity for this date and priced at $325.00

1865-Two Cent Piece. Proof. A real nice coin $100.00

1912-D Nickel. Gem strike, nice hair line, a very above average coin for this date $165.00

1927-S Nickel. BU. A real gem for this date at $200.00

1795 Half Dime. Unc. A choice piece with a proof-like surface. For the collector who wants quality $900.00

1800 Half Dime Liberty. Unc. Another nice piece considered rarer than the 1794 by some collectors $800.00

1916-D Dime. BU. Strictly a choice rem coin. Finest we have ever owned or seen. A piece for a discriminating collector only $750.00

1916-D Dime. BU. Another strictly choice piece. not quite as sharp as the above one — priced at $675.00

1923-S Quarter. BU. Another choice quarter with full head and date for collector who wants quality and priced at $225.00

1806 Half. Unc. A real nice coin as well as a scarce and desirable date $200.00

1907 Roman Numeral $20.00 Gold. A superb gem in every aspect, probably one of the finest available $850.00

1911-D 2 1/2 Dollar Gold. BU. A choice piece with a nice D and a sharp wire edge $450.00

- gold issued, now valued at approximately $125.00.
- 1957 Mintage: 750 sets. Current approximate value: $45.00, plus 380 sets with gold now valued at approximately $125.00.
- 1958 Mintage: 625 sets. Current approximate market value: $45.00, plus 515 sets with gold now retailing at $125.
- 1959 Mintage: 320 sets. Approximate market value: $100.00, plus 630 sets with gold now selling for about $150.00. This illustrates an interesting instance where the gold sets are more plentiful than the regular sets. However, the term "plentiful" is not really appropriate here as both are legitimately scarce.
- 1960 Mintage: 1,860 sets. Current approximate value: $27.00, plus 1,600 gold sets now selling for $75.00. This is the last set to portray Queen Elizabeth, and is also the last issued before the decimal series.
- 1961 Mintage: 4,390 sets. Approximate market value: $20.00, plus 2,140 Long sets now selling for $60.00.
- 1962 Mintage: 6,030 sets. Current approximate value: $25.00, plus 2,380 Long sets now selling for $50.00 per set.
- 1963 Mintage: 7,500. Current value: $12.00, plus approximately 2,500 gold sets now selling for about $40.00.

As of this writing we expect the 1964 South African mintage to break all records. The South Africa mint recently announced that in the face of tremendous orders it was limiting the number of sets which could be purchased directly from the mint.

All of the above sets were issued in attractive presentation cases which certainly contributes to their beauty, and in no small degree to their desirability.

For the investor the proof sets of South Africa represent interesting diversification. In our opinion there is small chance of loss as the current values are not founded upon a speculative basis. Rather, the current prices are predicated on a solid demand from collectors. The numbers issued were small, and the chances of any sizeable hoards effecting the market values are slight.

Numerous people have recommended the South African sets for investment at current prices. We will not disagree.

In investing in South African proof sets, or any of these foreign issues for that matter, it must be remembered that any such investment should be undertaken with a long term aspect in mind. While some day to day or week to week profits may be realized, the only realistic way of viewing the situation is with the intent of retaining the sets for one to three years. In the past years South African proof sets have rewarded their owners handsomely. We believe the next few years will be no exception.

REPEATING TWO VERY POPULAR EMPIRE OFFERS...

● Complete Collection of English Proof Sets 1927 to 1953

● 1944-D Crowns of Curacao

Complete Collection of English Proof Sets 1927 - 1953

Your last opportunity to buy at the $645.00 price! During the past half century, England has issued Proof sets for collectors only on five occasions; 1927, 1937, 1950, 1951 and 1953. We offer complete collections . . . one set of each of these five years . . . for $645.00 postpaid. You will receive:

1927 Proof Set Beautiful complete cased set as issued . . . contains the threepence, sixpence, shilling, florin, halfcrown and crown. Not only is the 1927 Proof set scarce to begin with (15,000 minted), but the desirability of this set is enhanced even further by the fact that four of the six coins in this set were struck only in Proof condition; that is, no additional specimens of their date and type were struck for circulation . . . making these four coins most important "key" coins by themselves. In beautiful presentation case.

1937 Proof Set Complete set as issued . . . all denominations farthing through crown plus the 1937 Maundy set. A scarce and beautiful set with much to recommend it. In attractive velvet-lined presentation case of issue.

1950 Proof Set Complete as issued . . . farthing through halfcrown. Contains the "key" 1950 penny . . . a rare coin in any grade. In original red box of issue.

1951 Proof Set Complete as issued . . . farthing through crown. With the rare 1951 penny . . . one of the scarcest 20th century English coins. In original box of issue.

1953 Proof Set Queen Elizabeth II Coronation Proof set in original plush-lined leatherette case of issue. Complete as issued, farthing through crown. Popular and scarce. Of exceptional interest as all 1953 English coins are type coins . . . this design type was issued only in 1953, and was subsequently modified in 1954.

This will be the last time we will offer these sets for $645.00. For a number of years we had set aside English Proof sets in order to make up collections 1927-1953. Our initial offering was at $595.00 for the five sets; at which price we nearly sold out. By buying additional sets when offered we were able to complete a few more collections. These were advertised and sold at the $645.00 figure, reflecting our higher replacement costs.

We are now finding it virtually impossible to replace our English Proof sets at any price. Advertisements inviting people to sell us sets have resulted in our obtaining NOT EVEN A SINGLE SET of 1927, 1937, 1950 or 1951!

This is the last time we will be offering these COMPLETE COLLECTIONS for $645.00. Either one or two things will happen: (1) We will be COMPLETELY SOLD OUT OF THESE COLLECTIONS and will not be able to deliver them for any price; or (2) We will buy additional sets (if any of our readers have any of these sets, let us know . . . we are MOST INTERESTED in buying . . . and especially need sets of 1937, 1950 and 1951) but due to having to pay FULL RETAIL or close to it, we will no longer be able to deliver for $645.00 and will have to raise our price to $695.00 or $750.00.

There is an absolutely tremendous enthusiasm in the numismatic marketplace for these sets. If you are interested in buying them; now is the time to purchase a really first-rate collection, containing all choice Proof coins in original cases of issue, for a nominal price, $645.00. Limit: One collection per order. We suggest TELEPHONING US COLLECT if you want to order; first-come, first-served.

The Beautiful 1944-D Crown of Curacao!

Our offering of 4,000 1953 English crowns is now history. All have been SOLD and a number of prospective buyers have been disappointed . . . including one dealer who telephoned us from London, England, hoping to buy a quantity for resale.

Our original supply of 2,000 1944-D Curacao crowns is selling fast . . . like the proverbial "hotcakes." We have had many, many orders, including many from dealers buying for resale. It will be a matter of time, too, until the 1944-D Curacao pieces are SOLD OUT . . . and those who "waited until the last minute" will be disappointed.

The 1944-D Curacao crown is a large silver-dollar size coin . . . the ONLY CROWN OF THE IMPORTANT WEST INDIES ISLAND OF CURACAO! Not only are these coins most important as a major type, but they were struck at the Denver, Colorado, U.S.A. Mint and bear a "D" mintmark!

Recently we purchased an outstanding group of 2,000 BU pieces . . . an original "treasure trove" still bagged and with the Denver imprint . . . in choice condition just as they left the Denver Mint 20 years ago!

The 1944-D Curacao crown is a RARE coin to begin with . . . only 200,000 pieces were minted . . . a mintage less than that of the 1885-CC U.S.A. silver dollar . . . and less than the mintage of ANY Carson City Morgan dollar, for that matter.

Collectors and investors by the thousands are turning their interests to Coins of the World . . . one of the outstanding growth areas in numismatics . . . an untapped area with tremendous potential. The main problem with foreign coin investment is finding the OPPORTUNITY to buy choice coins in worthwhile investment quantities . . . an offering such as this is a remarkable occurrence. This is a purchase opportunity that the astute numismatist or investor will not want to miss!

Check the advantages of the 1944-D Curacao crown:

- The Only Crown of Curacao . . . needed by all collectors of world crowns; coinages of the Americas, etc.
- Low mintage of only 200,000 pieces . . . of which only a very few survive in mint condition today.

- Struck at the Denver, U.S.A. Mint, and with a "D" mintmark.
- Choice Brilliant Uncirculated condition . . . the ultimate in preservation for this coin.
- Offered at an attractive low price . . . choice BU pieces at prices you would expect to pay for worn "VF" or "EF" coins.

The 1944-D Curacao crown is SCARCE AND DESIRABLE. For that reason they have been selling quickly . . . and will be SOLD OUT in the not-too-distant future. Order now. If your order is for fifty or more pieces, telephone us collect. As with all Empire purchases, your satisfaction is guaranteed.

Coin Collecting Corporation Makes $1 Million Public Stock Offering

DAYTON, OHIO — A million-dollar public stock offering was made on June 30 by a recently organized corporation engaged solely in the buying, managing, and selling of rare and unusual coins and other numismatic items.

The firm, headed by former Ohio Governor Michael V. DiSalle, chairman of the board, is the Paramount International Coin Corporation, Englewood, Ohio. It is the first company of its kind to achieve effective registration with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

As stated in its prospectus, the firm will "engage in the wholesale and retail acquisition, holding, management, and disposition of domestic, foreign and ancient coins, currency, commemoratives, medals, and other numismatic items."

Offered for sale were 1000 shares of Class A common, non-voting stock at $1000 a share. All sales will be made directly by the company through its officers and employees, and will be consummated at corporate headquarters, 1 North Main Street, Englewood, from which a copy of the prospectus is available. The issue represents new financing.

Other officers of Paramount International are: James F. Kelly, Englewood, president; Max J. Humbert, Englewood, executive vice-president and secretary; James F. Ruddy, Johnson City, N. Y., vice-president and treasurer, and Norman R. Wissinger, Dayton, assistant secretary and general counsel. DiSalle, Kelly, Humbert, and Ruddy also constitute the board of directors.

Kelly, Humbert, and Ruddy all operate or engage in independent coin businesses of their own. Each will continue in his own business while participating in Paramount International Coin Corporation.

DiSalle, a knowledgeable coin collector, but not professionally involved in the field, in addition to his duties as board chairman also will act as "Public Director" of the company.

Aim of Paramount International in its issuance of public stock is to acquire enough working capital to enter the market in a position to buy in volume, and to bid for and purchase outright large, costly collections as they become available. Until now, these mostly have been handled by dealers on a consignment-commission basis. An example is the famed Wolfson collection, valued at $700,000, which was disposed of piecemeal through such arrangements.

"Our issuing public stock," DiSalle said, "enables the person interested in numismatic investments, but without the experience or specific knowledge required, to participate in a firm devoted solely to this activity, and headed by experts in the field. Our officers are highly qualified professionals, and we will have the financial capability to take advantage of attractive numismatic buying opportunities."

In addition to the three professionals on its board of directors, the corporation will be served by an advisory board comprising five acknowledged experts in the field. The original five were appointed by the board of directors, and subsequent advisors will be elected each year at the company's annual meeting, an election in which holders of non-voting shares of stock will be permitted to participate.

British

1954. Silver florin. Mintage, 4,000,000. Obverse: Elizabeth II. Reverse: Kangaroo, depicting Australia, and Lion, symbolizing Great Britain. Approx. price, $2.50-$3.00.

Any investment selection from these commemoratives must be made according to the investor's judgment. The investor will probably get a lot more pleasure out of these interesting coins than from run-of-the-mill types. Aesthetically some of them are very beautiful. The reverse of the 1951 British crown, for instance designed by Pistrucci and depicting St. George and the legendary Dragon is artistically very pleasing. The Bermuda commemorative — in silver — is another attractive coin. The Bermuda coin (mintage 100,282) is considered by the Royal Mint in London to be a very fine piece. It has been steadily going up in price. Last fall it was selling for $8, this May for $12, and it is now around $15. It is still reasonably priced. It is part of the Queen Elizabeth II series.

The Elizabeth series is a popular one. The proposed new portrait design of Elizabeth may increase interest in this series. It has been reported that Canada may be the first to have the new design on its 1965 dollar. The most sought-after commemorative in the Commonwealth group is the New Zealand Waitangi. Its extremely low mintage makes it hard to find — and expensive.

World commemoratives for investment are usually bought either singly or in tens or hundreds. There is usually a price concession on the larger units. Some diversification is prudent in this field as in other coin investment areas. Some commemoratives are advertised as being "in original case." This is the plastic case in which they were issued, and probably one's chances are better of getting unmarked, more perfect coins in these cases. Coins in original cases seem to command a slight premium. If you are buying uncirculated commemoratives without case, your best precaution, as with all coins, is to buy from reputable dealers on whose grading you can depend.

ROGER O. HERD

NUMISMATIST

SHEEP RANCH, CALIF.

JUST DIVORCED———our retail store and moved our offices and teletypes four blocks away.

WE DON'T want to do a million dollars worth of business each month.
have the lowest prices in the country (or the highest either).
give quotes every few minutes on the phone.
have half a dozen teletypes (only 2).
offer ridiculous 'get rich quick' items and schemes.
sell on layaway or time payments (buy what you can afford)

WE DO sincerely solicit your patronage.
sell and have in stock collectors coins as well as investors coins.
maintain a large stock (we don't have to buy everything, but can make delivery at once on many items).
quote firm prices at which we will deliver net to you.

WE DO NOT guarantee that you will make money by purchasing coins that we may recommend, but on the other hand —

WE DO GUARANTEE THAT YOU WILL NOT LOSE entirely at your option, we will repurchase from you anything that we have sold you, one year from date of sale at the purchase price plus 6%. No ifs, ands, or buts -- the only requirement is that you advise us not less than 15 or more than 30 days prior to the expiration of the year.

Naturally you can be assured that we will not sell you any inflated rolls or coins when we make an offer like this. We will offer what in our opinion is good, sound investment material.

With our new set-up, we can handle about 25 to 30 more serious investors. We invite your inquiries.

UNCIRCULATED SILVER DOLLARS FOR THE COLLECTOR AND INVESTOR

The following is a list of silver dollars which I have assembled and that I am offering at realistic prices. I honestly feel that there is not much more time left before you can assemble silver dollars at a realistic price.

What other series of coins can you assemble that are at least 50 years old and are in uncirculated condition. You will find no bargains but you will find coins that are graded correctly and service that you will be happy to receive.

Japanese Gold Imports-Exports Severely Curbed

New Regulations to Affect Gold Coins

C. F. Verbeke

IN A LONG expected move, the Japanese Ministry of Finance has issued more stringent gold regulations. Under the new regulations, Article 45 of the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Control Law (No. 228, 1949) states that "unless authorized as provided by Cabinet Order, no person may export or import . . . precious metals". The Law defines "precious metals" as "gold, alloy or gold, coins withdrawn from circulation, and all goods principally composed of gold"; the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI) defines "goods principally composed of gold" as goods with more than 50% gold content by weight or f.o.b. price. The value of the gold content of the import, established by MITI and the Ministry of Finance, is based on the wholesale price of gold at Japanese mines. The current price is U.S. $1.84 per gram, or more than one and a half times the value of gold at U.S. $35.00 per ounce. The Gold Control Law (No. 62 of 1953) authorizes the sale of 95 percent of the gold produced in Japan to private purchasers at market prices.

According to MITI and Ministry of Finance officials, imports of goods composed principally of gold must be approved first by MITI and then by the Ministry of Finance. Since September 1963, the policy has been to grant approval for such imports only in exceptional circumstances, such as a special need of the Japanese economy.

Similarly, a license must be obtained to export current Japanese coinage. Arrangements can be made with firms equipped to handle such transactions but the process is rather intricate. The Japanese Mint does not provide numismatic services.

IN THE House of Representatives on June 29 the representative of Connecticut, Mr. Monagan, touched again on the acute coin shortage in the United States. He commented on the news in the morning papers the Treasury Department is going to take various steps to alleviate the coin shortage currently plaguing the Nation. Specifically, the plans of the Treasury to continue purchasing metal strip for the blanking of coins in order to break the bottleneck in production that has held up the blanking of these coins. To quote Mr. Monagan, "I am happy to say that some of the recent orders for strip have been placed with companies in my district." The one thing, however, that puzzles Mr. Monagan is the fact that the Treasury refuses to permit private industry to actually make the blanks for the coins. Instead of doing this, the Treasury proposes purchasing presses from private industry or from surplus stocks.

There are many industries in this country with a long history of experience in this very work, work which was only suspended at the time of World War II. These companies have the facilities and the know-how and the capacity to this work and do it economically. These private firms should be engaged to do this work, at least until the new mint is built.

This is one more step that the Treasury could and should take in order to cope with the very real and acute problem of coin shortage in the United States, let private industry step in and take over as much of the burden as is feasible and in this case most advantageous to everybody concerned.

SEAL BEACH, Calif. — A new coin publication, INSIDE NUMISMATICS has just appeared on the investment scene, having gone to press for the first time June 29.

The publication, under the direction of Robert Wenger, Larry Abbott and George Pat-eras will concern itself with presenting news and trends which affect the coin market. Also included will be bid and ask quotations on leading coin issues.

Coinage

go out of circulation as fast as they are minted. This will merely further the silver coins problems.

With the large pressure on the half dollars, the stress is now increasing on the 25-cent pieces and 10-cent pieces and smaller coins. In many areas it is becoming very difficult to make small change and banks are rationing their smaller coins. I understand that many of the coins are being hoarded or are going out of the country since our coins now have sufficient silver that they can be sold on the open market at any time in the form of silver. Hence, this provides a hedge for the person hoarding silver."

As to the immediate implication of the Nation's coin shortage, Mr. White commented:

"I am fearful that if we do nothing about our coinage problem, that as this silver situation deteriorates, that our coins will literally disappear and that we will wake up some morning in the not too distant future and not have any coins. Utter chaos could result. This could bring about a complete lack of confidence in our Government and its financial policies. When people lose confidence in the money, anything might happen."

Followed a brief reference to the issuance of "fiat" money:

"Previously the Government printed paper 25-cent pieces and 50-cent pieces. This may have to happen again."

Representative White offered the following solutions to the current silver crisis and U. S. coin shortage:

(1) That the quantity of silver placed in coins be reduced by 50 percent. This in effect would be increasing the monetary price of silver from $1.29 to $2.58 an ounce; (2) call in all Federal silver certificates and conserve the silver for future coinage needs and for backing of our currency; (3) to eliminate the sale of silver by the U.S. Treasury and retain this silver for coinage and monetary purposes with one exception.

The exception would provide for the Treasury selling a certain amount of silver to U. S. industry for a period of five years. It is our thought that this might be phased out over a 5-year period; for example, we could sell 50 million ounces the first year, 40 million the second, 30 million the third, etc. The effect of this would be to eliminate any tremendous fluctuation in the price of silver upon the cessation of sales by the U.S. Treasury. Summing up the nature and the proportions of the silver crisis, Mr. White concluded:

"I think that going to Congress and to the public, we could well explain that the content of silver in our silver coins has remained the same since 1793, that in view of the industrial needs and consumption of the metal, that we are decreasing it by 50 percent. I think if this is done at this time, before the situation gets real critical, the public will not become really over aroused and hence, this will not adversely affect our financial or physical condition. The new coins can be gradually circulated in with the old coins and as the mint gets additional capacity, the old coins can be melted down and converted into new coins. If this is done, gradually, no crisis will come about. However, if all the old coins go underground overnight, because of lack of action, then the problem is much more acute. This transition must be done very smoothly and the sooner, the better. I think the mining industry should take the lead and advance these proposals as soon as possible in view of the forthcoming coinage crisis."

Space City Averages:

How They Are Obtained

With close to 1,500 separate statistics appearing each week in PACE, a need exists to express this information in graphic form for busy readers.

We are currently charting eight different coin series each week as you see below. These charts are based on Space City Averages, an arbitrarily chosen group of rolls which we feel are representative of the total for that series.

To be included in the Space City Averages rolls are chosen on the basis of three factors: (1) their trading is constant, (2) they are widely held, and (3) they are indicative of the series.

It is obvious infrequently traded items, closely held items, and extremes in the series would not serve this purpose.

Each week the statistical staff of PACE prepares these averages from the information obtained on The American Numismatics Exchange transactions.

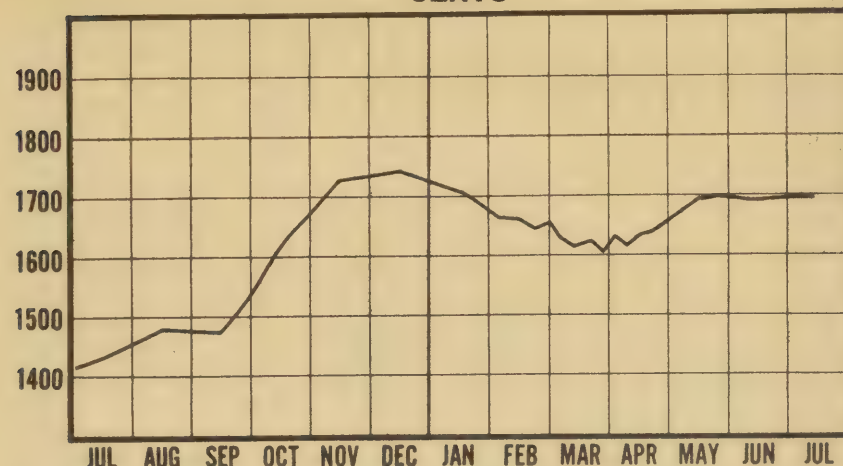

The amount expressed in the Space City averages is the total market bid prices for the rolls included in the averages. This is a dollar figure and is compared with previous week, month, and year figures for analysis. The high and low for 1964 is also shown.

MARKET SUMMARY

July 8, 1964

By Russell Brown

This week, if you did not wish to do business in proof sets, you did not do business. Possibly that's a little strong, but it seemed that for every item on tape of any other sort, there was a matching item offering to buy or sell sets or proof coins.

Two proof sets stood out from all the rest in performance. However they were unique not for their large gains, but for their complete inactivity. The 1960 small date set has not moved in price for two weeks. The 1938 set has lost a net $5 in two weeks.

Meanwhile, the rest of the set market continues its fast rise. Though some signs of topping out were visible, good gains continued to be scored by all of the recent year sets and by the elusive 1936 and 1937 sets. Even the 1961 and 1962 sets which were of such ill repute just a year ago crossed the $7 mark on heavy volume.

Meanwhile, back at the roll market, the situation was crypt quiet. In Lincoln cents, few transactions were recorded in any of the earlier dates and all price changes were minimal. The 1960 small dates continued their slide with the 1960-P dropping five dollars and the Denver product losing fifty cents per roll in the denomination's heaviest activity.

Jefferson nickels saw an eleven to three excess of declines over advances. Six issues dropped three dollars or more as dealers appeared to be making an attempt to empty their larders of rolls in order to play the proof set game. The 1955-P lost a surprising $10 while the only ray of sunshine was the 1950-D with a gain of $10 on fairly heavy interest.

Roosevelt dimes were exceedingly quiet with no advances and very small price movement. The 1955-S and the 1951-D continued their gradual losing trend. The 1964-P seems to be dropping steadily in price as are most all of the 1964 issues.

Washington quarters made a small attempt to move ahead in price and a majority of issues advanced. The largest gain recorded, however, was only two dollars by the 1948-S and no issue moved in price by more than $2.50. Finally losing ground after long and continued support was the 1955-D issue, the big loser of the series.

Franklin halves were lower on average for the sixth straight week. Following last week's large decrease by the 1949-P, this week the 1949-S had its turn losing $40 on small offerings. The 1951-S, 1951-D and the 1953-P lost $5 each on general disinterest. Only one issue made a token advance against six declines.

Both Morgan and Peace dollars suffered their second week of quiet dealings with small decreases in some issues. Once again much interest was shown in the 1921-D. After last week's $10 gain from the $75 level, the issue jumped $25 on heavy bidding. All other issues with the possible exception of the 1891-P and the 1903-P were not requested in any volume.

This week saw no interest in circulated coinage evidenced. Taken in total, Jefferson nickels, Roosevelt dimes and Franklin half dollars saw only two declines and one advance. These were of a very minor nature.

Canadian proof like sets were very slow movers with the exception of the 1964 issues. Heavy demand has been shown for both the set itself and for the proof like dollar. The fact that this is a commemorative issue is probably the cause for this interest.

The Market Opinion

We feel very sad watching the furor over the proof sets. For several weeks in the past we had felt pride in our market place for its seeming ability to shun the old time "running" of a series and instead, to advance two or more series in an orderly fashion. Then suddenly the proof sets get moving and everybody drops everything and the set market goes up like a rocket.

It seems questionable to many observers that the 1964 set can really merit a price level approaching $20 when there are some two million sets already out and two million more coming. In fact, when the various mintages of recent sets are studied, one begins to wonder just where all these proof specimens will find their eventual homes.

One factor which is certainly helping to drive the prices of the older sets up is the new phase of denominational proof collecting which seems to be gaining in popularity. While a few thousand of these denominational sets do not make much of a dent in the supply of, say, 1962 or 63 sets, they do eat away at the available 1950 and 1951's. Because of this, we will probably see these earlier sets continuing to appreciate when the current run has reached its end and the current date sets reach the plateau which they must within the next week or two.

Please do not regard this as a prediction but, it is noticeable that this week, for the first time, the 1950-D Jefferson nickel was in a little heavier demand than for the past month. If you will recall, an increased interest in the "king" preceded the last rise (late April) of the Jefferson series. This interest bears watching.

Coin Market Fundamentals

Coins are listed by date and mint. Mintmarks follow the date in the list and are the same letter that appear on coins.

Unless indicated as "sets" or "circulated" all items listed on these pages are for Brilliant Uncirculated coins in standard count rolls.

Standard count rolls are as follows for each denomination:

Denomination	Number	Face Value
Cents	50	$.50
Nickels	40	2.00

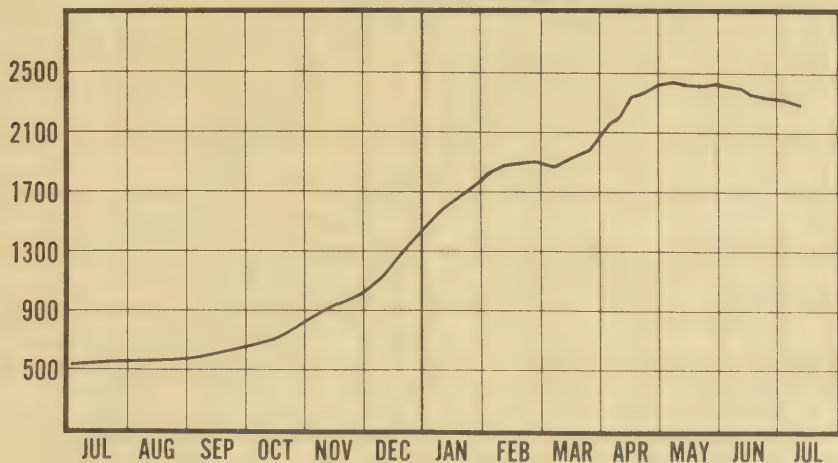

Dimes	50	5.00
Quarters	40	10.00
Half dollars	20	10.00
Silver dollars	20	20.00

Prices listed here are taken from the American Numismatics Exchange transactions and are dealer-to-dealer prices; in effect wholesale prices.

You could expect to sell at these prices, but to buy at retail, you should expect to pay slightly above these prices.

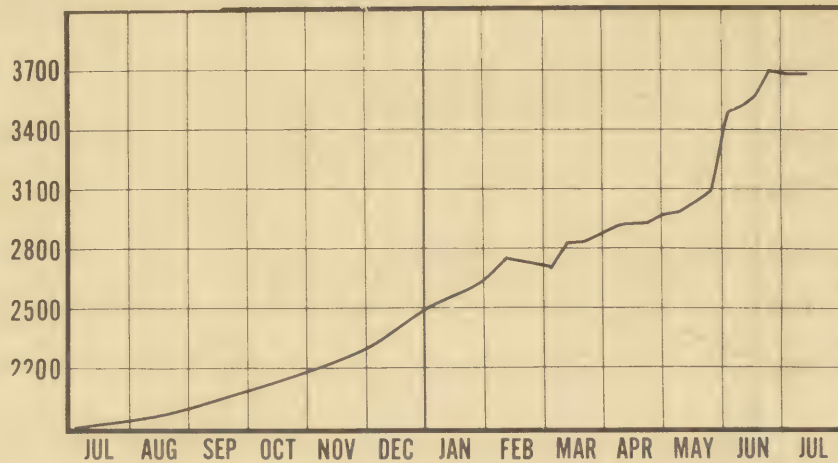

The "LD" and "SD" are varieties of the 1960 cent which were struck with large-date and small date figures.

HALF DOLLARS

MORGAN DOLLARS

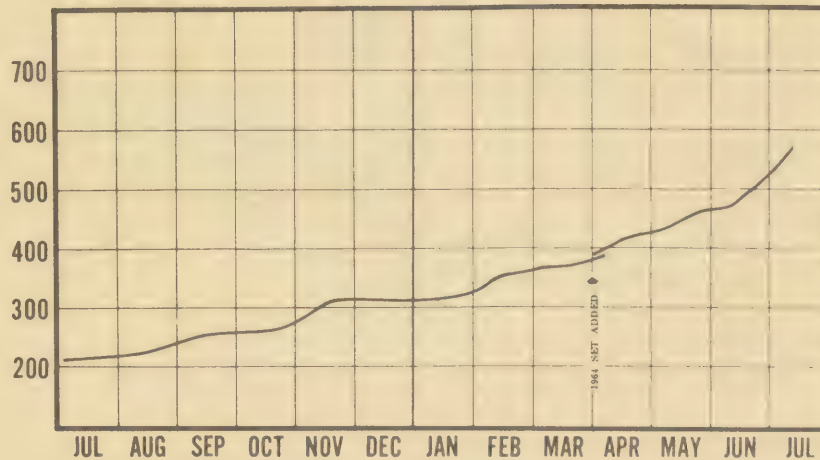

The following BU rolls were used in the calculation of the Morgan dollar averages: 1878-CC, 1879-O, 1882-CC, 1883-CC, 1883-S, 1885-S, 1890-O, 1894-O, 1897-P, 1897-O, 1897-S, 1898-P, 1901-P.

PEACE DOLLARS

The following BU rolls were used in the calculation of the Peace dollar averages: 1922-S, 1923-D, 1926-P, 1926D, 1926-S, 1928-S, 1934-D.

PROOF SETS

All proof sets from 1950 to date, excluding the 1960 small date set, go to make up the proof set averages. The current year's set is added to the average on April first.

American Numismatics Exchange Transactions

BU Roll Prices as of Wednesday, July 8, 1964

These bid and asked prices, from the American Numismatic Exchange Inc., do not necessarily represent actual transactions. They are a guide to the range within which these coins could have been sold (indicated by the "bid") or bought (indicated by the "asked") at the time of compilation. Price changes are obtained by comparison of weekly bid prices.

Prices are wholesale quotations compiled from the American Numismatic Exchange teletype system which serves 195 coin dealers across the country.

WALLA WALLA COIN CO. INC.

OFFERS U.S. TYPE COINS

DID you ever stop to consider the relative low prices of U.S. type coins with late date BU rolls and Proof Sets. For instance the entire mintage of the twenty cent piece series is less than 1½ million pieces. Compare this with what some of the BU rolls and Proof Sets with similar mintages are selling for. Also remember, that there is a definite need and demand for these TYPE coins, from the hundreds of thousands of type set collectors, to say nothing of the many collectors who are attempting to put together complete series of 3c Nickels, 3c Silvers, ½ Dimes, 20c Pieces. Etc. We think you will agree that U.S. Type coins have a definite and promising future in numismatics. We have managed to secure a fair quantity of this material and offer it as follows:

20¢ PIECES G-VG All dates to be of our choice. Per 1 Coin $16.50 Per 5 Coins 80.00 Per 10 Coins 157.50	2¢ PIECES G-VG At least 6 different dates included in each lot. MIN. LAYAWAY NOW $50.00

Please note new Layaway Rules!

May we suggest that the best way to enhance your investment in coins is to use the W. H. Foster, Inc. LAYAWAY PLAN! You just pick out your needs and we'll put them in the vault in your name . . . ready to mail. Pay 20% down and the balance in monthly installments (or sooner if you desire!) All Layaway Items are insured and sent prepaid at delivery.

The following are our Layaway Rules:

1. Minimum Layaway amount is $50.00.
2. Add 4% to total order.
3. Send 20% down payment and pay 20% a month.
4. Certain items will be marked "no layaway."
5. Penalty: If payments are not complete, money will be refunded less five per cent of total order.

Your order will not be delayed pending clearance of your check. All checks deposited on receipt. All orders accepted subject to prior sale. B & D Grading. Five day return privileges. Please include 25c for postage on orders under $5.00. Washington residents add 4 percent sales tax. THINKING OF SELLING? Remember W. H. FOSTER, INC., has the "fastest checkbook in the west."
